

Say goodbye to power outages

Power Ready's stand-by power generators keep Tulsa homes and businesses going strong.

Ginette Overall, President of Power Ready, offer their clients, security, comfort and peace of mind.

Every Tulsan knows the Oklahoma weather often brings with it unexpected power outages. Sometimes they last hours and sometimes weeks — creating inconveniences and, in many cases, loss of business productivity.

Power Ready's supply of stand-by power generators includes Briggs & Stratton, GE, Kohler, and Generac, each equipped to keep your home and business in working condition. In addition, Power Ready has a full staff of certified technicians available to install the generator that fits your needs.

Power Ready has also introduced their green energy system, the Indoor Power System (IPS). With a "no fumes, no fuel, no fuss" motto this system is perfect for medical and dental offices, condos or assisted living homes. Power Ready's new IPS is the perfect alternative for smaller spaces or those looking for a more earth friendly system. The IPS units can be run alone or by hooking them up with a wind turbine, solar panel, and even a generator in order to cut up to 30 percent of your electric costs per month or take you completely off the grid.

This year, make sure you are in charge of your home before the power goes out.
